You won't find a more experienced team in the industry than ours. And once you've made contact with one of our knowledgeable, friendly experts, you'll discover why the San Diego Convention Center is consistently ranked one of the top convention centers in the nation. Our goal is to make your convention experience flawless from start to finish. It's one-stop shopping - from the initial sales process, through the planning stages, to the opening day of your show - we're with you every step of the way.

Senior Management

The San Diego Convention Center Corporation's total service philosophy starts at the top with senior management. All experts in their respective fields, they oversee the various facets of the corporation. This includes executive leadership for all departments, programs and activities to successfully manage, operate and market the building.
